Phuket flights now on sale

Virgin Atlantic announced the launch of a new seasonal service from London Heathrow to Phuket, and we're excited to tell you that flights are now on sale. The route will operate three times per week on the airline's Boeing 787-9 Dreamliner, offering customers direct access to Thailand's largest island and one of Southeast Asia's most popular leisure destinations.

The new route marks the only direct service between London Heathrow and Phuket, providing a convenient option for customers seeking premium connectivity to Thailand's southern islands. Through Virgin Atlantic's partnership with Bangkok Airways, passengers will also benefit from onward connections to destinations including Koh Samui, Krabi and beyond, enabling seamless travel across Thailand.

From the dazzling Golden Buddha at Wat Khao Rang to the colourful streets of Old Phuket Town, your clients can discover a destination bursting with culture, flavour, and sunshine.

Don't miss a thing

We'll be back next month with our newsletter for all December updates. Whilst you're waiting, go ahead and follow us on socials.
